

1. If there are two branches, br1 and br2, showing all differences between them can be done with:

Ans: git diff br1 br2

2. Showing which files have changed between two branches can be done with (Select all answers that apply):

Ans:

- git diff --stat br1 br2
- git diff --numstat br1 br2

3. Showing all differences between the current working tree and the last commit can be done with:

Ans: git diff

4. In the command git diff tag1 name2, if tag1 is a tag, name2 can be a (select all correct answers):

Ans:

- another tag
- a branch name
- a previous commit identifier

5. How can you see the differences in file1 between tag1 and tag2?

Ans: git diff tag1 tag2 file1